GARDEN TO GIVE:

The growing season is underway, and Marshall Public Library is teaming up with The Idaho Foodbank once again this year to help get excess produce from your garden to the food bank for our annual "Garden to Give" program. The program encourages the local community to donate their extra produce to help families in need.

The library will accept donations of locally grown fresh produce, including fruits, vegetables and herbs, and transport them to the food bank. Since the program began in 2019, MPL has collected several hundred pounds each year for the food bank helping collect overflow from local gardens and connecting it with those who need it the most. We will collect donations from June through October.
